Don:

There were 2 TCEQ numbers but the one I gave you is the correct one.

Apparently, the issue is with TCEQ, not the EPA ID Number?

I'll confer with EPA and see if they're cool with me calling.

Don,
I got the following message from USE. Is there someone that can call TCEQ?

Brian

It is actually the TCEQ website. <https://www.tceq.texas.gov/agency/directory/>

Kathy called TCEQ and they are open. They will want the waste permit department.

Brian--

If the EPA ID Number was entered correctly, see if US Ecology will accept this number below. I realize the waste is not "solid" but with the shutdown, no one is working at EPA to "reactivate" it.

Thanks,

Don

Don:

I am not sure exactly what number they are needing but this is what was used when we gave Republic the State Solid Waste Registration Number.

Solid Waste Registration (SWR): 80951

Don:

Just use the EPA ID for the FJ Doyle Site.

Brian-

Thanks for the update. I've copied Gary and Paige with EPA to investigate this issue.

It will be a one-time shipment but I'm pretty sure we would want to use the EPA ID number.

We'll get back to you shortly.

Don,

This will be about par for the course on this one. So the profile got kicked back because the EPA ID shows up on the EPA website as inactive. Do you know if anyone was planning to reactivate it? We can also haul it as TXCESQG as the ID if this is just a one time shipment. I would lean latter but wanted to check with you. Let me know.

Subject: Hydraulic Liquids Profile - Signed

Good afternoon, Brian.

Attached please find the executed waste profile for the 3 drums of hydraulic liquids.

Please let us know when we you have an idea of pickup dates.

Regards,

Don
